WHERE BUSINESSES THRIVE IN MALVERN AND UPTON

Swiss manufacturing company sets up UK headquarters at Link Business Centre, Malvern

A Swiss company specialising in cleaning nozzles is all set to run its new UK headquarters from Link Business Centre in Malvern. enz UK Ltd is a wholly owned subsidiary of enz Technik which is a global business with subsidiaries in the USA, UK, Germany and Sweden. enz Technik also sells worldwide through more than 200 partner companies, generating sales in over 50 countries.

UK Sales Manager Mark Malsom has big plans for the new venture. Mark has been creating a UK sales team for enz products for some time. The move to Unit 4 Link Business Centre is within easy commuting distance for the team of 4 and there is plenty of room for their stock of equipment. With customers including Welsh Water and the Lanes Group, Mark plans to use the base for distribution in the medium term and a repair centre in the longer term. Having an enz UK HQ cuts down on shipping costs as equipment can now be sent over from Europe in larger quantities to fulfil orders.

enz manufactures nozzles that connect to hoses that clean sewers and drains. The large drain clearing trucks that are often seen on the side of the roads have hoses that can measure in excess of 150m. The special jets used in enz's nozzles help to control the water pressure and flow which creates traction, flushing and even cutting.

Link Business Centre's co-owner Martin Wilesmith says 'We're delighted that enz has chosen Link Business Centre for its UK headquarters. We are only 8 miles from the M5 so this is an ideal location for a company wishing to improve its distribution network.'

Mark says 'When we first came to look at the unit it felt like a natural home. I certainly see this as a long-term base for enz UK Ltd and would like to thank the team at Link Business Centre for all their support so far.'

Diving equipment company heads into new waters at Upton Business Centre

A company specialising in customised diving equipment has now taken on a second unit at Upton Business Centre. NammuTech is a family-run company, set up in 2020 by Anthony Smith and sons Alex and Julian who are all keen divers. Having set up their design and manufacturing in Unit 1B, they bought another diving equipment company in 2021 and expanded into Unit 1A.

'The majority of our equipment is bespoke' explains Julian 'There are probably between 100-200,000 divers in the UK alone. So there's plenty of demand, it's just about convincing people about our manufacturing methods because this is very new.'

To the average non-technical person, NammuTech's manufacturing methods seem incredibly inventive. The majority of their breathing equipment parts or 'rebreathers' are designed using 3D printers. Some are made out of PLA, a fully biodegradable thermoplastic polymer consisting of renewable raw materials such as mashed up potato, beetroot and carrots.

As Julian explains 'Most people think 3D printing is a simple thing but it's amazing how quickly the technology is advancing'

The team is also finalising plans to have a showroom in their second unit so that scuba-divers can try on equipment and ensure that it is the perfect fit and weight.

'It's an exciting time for the business' concludes Julian. 'NammuTech is the first company in the UK to design rebreathers using 3D additive manufacturing and we're going into production this Spring. When you consider we started our business in my Dad's shed, that's quite a journey'

'We're very pleased that NammuTech has taken on a second unit' says Martin Wilesmith, Partner at Upton Business Centre 'They are a pioneering and innovative company and we wish them all the best with their production plans'

RSK Raw experts filmed for Sky TV programme

RSK Raw Technician Izzy Raitt and Business Manager Ruaraidh McKinnon have recently enjoyed two days of filming for Sky TV. The global company is one of the leading specialists in inland oil response and remediation.

The majority of the filming took place at RSK Raw's unit at Upton Business Centre. While Izzy was able to talk about careers in the sector, Ruaraidh presented a case study demonstrating sustainable management of a complex spill.

Ruaraidh described the filming as 'An amazing and interesting experience! I have a new found respect for anyone that works in front of a camera as it is not easy to remain calm and present in a clear and concise manner.'

The programme, which is called 'Developing More Sustainable Approaches to Spill Responses' will be screened in April.
